Carol Jenkins

President & CEO

ERA Coalition/Fund for Women's Equality

Carol Jenkins is an advocate for human, civil and women's rights, an award-winning author and Emmy-winning former television journalist. Ms. Jenkins is President and CEO of the ERA Coalition and the Fund for Women's Equality, sister organizations dedicated to the adoption of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Previously, Carol Jenkins was founding president of The Women's Media Center, a national nonprofit organization created to increase coverage and participation of women in media. As president, she conceived the Progressive Women's Voices program to provide media training for women and girls, and she expanded SheSource, the largest portfolio of women experts in the country.

As former chair and current board member of Amref Health Africa USA, an arm of the largest health NGO in Africa, Ms. Jenkins is engaged in efforts to support health programs for African women and girls. She also serves on the boards of several feminist leadership organizations as well as groups supporting the arts, excellence in journalism, and international animal rights.

Carol Jenkins earned a B.A. from Boston University and an M.A. from New York University. Both universities honored her as a Distinguished Alumna. She holds honorary doctorates from the College of New Rochelle and Marymount Manhattan College. She was a 2017 recipient of the Sackler First Award, given to women who are pioneers in their fields.
